Elective Deferral Limit: maximum contribution that a participant can contribute to a Workplace Retirement Plan, such as a 401(k) or 403(b) plan.

For 1081.01(d)/PR-Only Qualified plans, the Elective Deferral Limit is the maximum pre-tax contribution permitted for plans qualified solely under Section 1081.01(d) of the Puerto Rico Internal Revenue Code. For Puerto Rico participants in a Dual-Qualified plan, the Elective Deferral Limit for 2026 is $22,500. Contributions exceeding this limit will be taxable to the participant.

Annual Benefit Limit: maximum annual benefit that can be paid to a participant (IRC section 415). Applied limit is the lesser of the dollar limit above or 100% of the participant's average compensation (generally the high three consecutive years of service). The participant compensation level is also subjected to the Annual Compensation Limit.

Annual Contribution Limit: maximum annual contribution amount that can be made to a participant's account (IRC section 415). Limit is expressed as the lesser of the dollar limit or 100% of the participant's compensation, applied to the combination of employee contributions, employer contributions, and forfeitures allocated to a participant's account.

Annual Compensation Limit: In calculating contribution allocations, a plan cannot consider any employee compensation in excess of this limit. In calculating certain nondiscrimination tests, all participant compensation is limited to this amount.

457 Deferral Limit: Similar restriction, applied to certain government plans (457 plans).

Highly Compensated Threshold (section 414(q)(1)(B)): minimum compensation level established to determine highly compensated employees for purposes of nondiscrimination testing.

Catch up Contributions: Under the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Act of 2001 (EGTRRA), certain individuals aged 50 or over can make catch up contributions. Beginning 2025, individuals aged 60 - 63 may make additional catch-up contributions due to SECURE 2.0 legislation, as determined at the plan level.
